

Day #638 Since I came back from Cincy, Anne has been having sexual contact with me (at her instigation) about once every day & a half. This morning the most amazing thing happened. For a long time I have talked on & off about the 'patterns' which I often times see after orgasm. At times they are stationary like a fine irridescent mycellial network & at times they move like quasi-intelligent brownian motion. Today I had my forehead pressed to Anne's pubis at the point of her orgasm & I saw the patterns! Could it be that the patterns are the visible manifestation of orgone energy & that I can see this energy the way others can see auras???

Day #640 I have tested the orgone theory & talked it over with Anne. Here is a tentative hypothesis. The 'pattern' is present before orgasm, but it is very difficult to detect (like trying to spot a squirril sitting motionless on a tree when you've never seen either a squirril or a tree before). Yet the pattern is not stationary, but rather like it is in a different dimension which is hard to see if you don't know where to look. At the point of orgasm, the pattern breaks up or flows with a will & direction of its own (or perhaps I should say because of the direction imparted to it by the magickian during the sexual operation??) at which point it becomes visible (& by hindsight it is possible to 'remember' where the pattern had been before it moved). The direction of flow may best be illustrated by an example: This morning Anne had a two-stage orgasm via my mouth. The first was the type she used to have quite often in which at the point of orgasm she would go rigid & the odor of orgasm would disappear instantly & she would not experience the pleasure of the orgasm in the physical body. After a brief rest I continued & she had a second orgasm which I call normal for want of a better term (lasting orgasmic odor, release of sexual tension, pleasure to the physical body, etc) which has been the predominant type for Anne for quite some time now. During both orgasms I saw patterns. My nose was stationary between the labia & my third eye pressed tightly to the mons veneris with my eyes tightly shut. During the first orgasm the pattern was a falling inward of many points & streaks of light. Kind of like there was a galactic size black hole in the region of Anne's vagina & the whole universe was being sucked into it. The second orgasm was nearly the exact opposite with an explosion outward from nearly the same spot — like being at the center of creation during the big bang (or at a white hole opposite the black hole of the first orgasm).

There is certainly not enough data for any value judgements or predictions, but it would seem that if a correlation between pattern & result could be made & if I could see the pattern before orgasm, it might be possible to directly manipulate the pattern (rather than manipulating symbols such as talisman images as I do now) to gain better control of the resultant force of orgasm.